

Bullzi Security Wins Contracts at Three Regional Banks

Lake Mary, Florida, August 28, 2007 – Bullzi Security Inc. (BLLZ.pk), a leading converged security provider has won security contracts, valued at approximately $150,000, at three regional banks. These financial institutions, which have branches in New Jersey, Maryland and Connecticut, have all selected Bullzi Security as their security partner to help them protect critical information assets.

Thomas Welch, co-founder and President of Bullzi Security says, "Because of identity theft and other types of financial crimes, banks and other financial institutions have to go to great lengths to protect sensitive financial information. Most mid-tier institutions can not do this alone! They need a security partner that will help them not only identify potential vulnerabilities, but more notably, will help them to mitigate exposed security deficiencies. This requires the support of knowledgeable and experienced information security professionals."

Mr. Welch went on to say that, "Regulatory programs such as Gramm-Leech-Bliley and Sarbanes-Oxley, as well as various identify theft bills, necessitate that banks, credit card companies and other financial institutions follow a strict level of best security practices to protect client information. All too often we hear about another security breach where personal financial records are exposed and/or the data is compromised."

Mr. Welch closed by saying, "We've done work for each of these institutions in the past and it is great to know that they have the confidence in Bullzi Security to continue the relationship. We hope to have these clients renew these annual security contracts for years to come. We will report in more detail on each of these projects during the forthcoming months."
